WINTERMUTE FORWARDING

LOS PASILLOS DE LA PLANTA 3.

This Wintermute Forwarding was born as an approach to the practice of documentary photography. It is an attempt to describe the corridors of the third floor of the main building of the Faculty of Fine Arts of the University of Barcelona. Always from a personal point of view and without claiming to be as precise as the art of documenting needs.

As in all the floors of the faculty buildings, the corridors are spaces for transit to other places, but if we stop for a few minutes they can show us details that will make us part of stories.

Stories in many cases more interesting than the classes taught in their classrooms.
